

British Airliner Crashes While Landing; At Least 27 Killed

Big Plane Hits Pylon At Belfast

Belfast, Northern Ireland, (AP)—A twin-engined British airliner crashed and burst into flames while landing near here last night, killing at least 27 of the 35 persons aboard and injuring seven.

Only one of those aboard—Steward Jack Young, 26, of Belfast—escaped apparently unhurt. He was hurled from the tail of the plane as it broke up. All other crew members were killed.

Most of the passengers were British. One of those killed was a small baby. Two American teachers, both from Kansas, were among those killed.

The airliner, a 36-seat Viking on a routine flight from London, hit a beacon pylon as it came in to land at nearby Nutts Corner, Belfast's airport. The plane careened off the pylon and control building before smashing into a runway close to where officials and relatives of the passengers were waiting to welcome the arrivals.

Flames enshrouded the wreckage as one girl passenger ran screaming from the airliner, bleeding profusely and with her clothes ablaze. She was taken to a hospital.

Four hours later only one passenger remained in the skeleton of the wrecked plane.

The British-European Airways (BEA), owner of the wrecked plane, withheld identifications of the victims until next of kin had been informed.

Young, undergoing treatment for shock at a hospital, said "everything was normal" as the plane approached for a landing.

"The passengers had fastened their safety belts when suddenly there was a terrific crash like a bomb in a blitz," Young said. "The next thing I knew I was lying in a muddy ditch."

BEA, one of Britain's two nationalized airlines, gave the casualties as 27 dead and seven injured. However, unofficial sources put the toll at 29 dead and five injured.

The other government-owned line is the British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC).

The airfield's radio services went out of action immediately after the crash, indicating the airliner had damaged installations when it bounced off the radio control building.

The crash occurred only about 100 yards from the end of the runway at about 9:30 p.m.

One of the engines hurtled 40 yards through the air, and a propeller was found in an adjoining field.

When the injured girl ran screaming from the wreckage, spectators rushed up and pulled other passengers from the plane as firefighters extinguished the flames.

Gen. Ridgway Pessimistic

Paris, (AP)—Gen. Matthew Ridgway said yesterday the West's 18 divisions in Germany would not be defeated in a sudden Russian attack but "would suffer grievous blows."

The general made his statement in reply to questions at a news conference two weeks after he had told North Atlantic Treaty officials he did not yet have enough force at hand to assure the defense of Western Europe.

In effect he repeated that assertion yesterday by declaring that the strength and training of the forces under him is "not satisfactory in the light of the mission assigned to me and in view of the accepted estimates of the enemy's capacities."

He declined to say how many divisions or airplanes the Russians have, but sources close to him have estimated the Russian forces at 175 divisions and 20,000 combat planes. Of the divisions, some estimates have indicated that perhaps 50 Red divisions were in Western Russia or in Germany.

Facing them across the Elbe or near the Rhine are six American, four British, five French, one Dutch and two Belgian divisions.

First Red MIG Of 1953 Downed

Seoul, (AP)—The first Communist MIG jet of 1953 was shot down in flames over Northwest Korea yesterday by U. S. Sabres in an air battle fought almost seven miles high, the Fifth Air Force reported.

On the frozen ground, infantrymen on patrol encountered Chinese wearing new black and white spotted Winter uniforms apparently designed to camouflage them in night forays over the snowy front.

Swindle Laid To Waldemar, Known Here

New York (AP)—State Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein disclosed yesterday that a nationwide search is on for an elderly onetime shoe peddler accused of swindling would-be investors of $250,000.

He named him as Peter Waldemar, 67, who lived in a cold-water flat but maintained a plush Wall Street office and was reported to have owned property near Kresgeville, Pa.

Goldstein said a quiet search has been on since Sept. 5 when a warrant was issued after Waldemar had been indicted for grand larceny.

The first victims, said Goldstein, were five city street cleaners who succumbed to Waldemar's blandishments, giving him sums ranging from $1,000 to $5,000 for investment in Wall Street.

Pretending to give them profits on their investments, Goldstein said Waldemar paid these men $40 or $50 a week of their own money, meanwhile persuading them to invest more and to get their friends and relatives to plunge with their savings.

Waldemar allegedly got the street cleaners to quit their jobs, promising them work as securities salesmen.

Rayburn Sees Party United As Minority

Washington, (AP)—Sam Rayburn of Texas, dean of all Democrats in Congress, believes his party will be more united, now that it is a minority, than during the almost 20 years it ruled the government.

Rayburn, starting his 21st consecutive term in Congress, is minority leader of the new House. He yielded the speakership to Republican Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts last Saturday after having held that office longer than any other man.

Rayburn said in an interview he believes the present Congress will see the end of the coalition of Southern Democrats and Republicans that dominated Capitol Hill even when the Democrats nominally were the majority party.

"I think we are going to be more united than ever before," he said.

His reason for believing that, he said, is that Southern Democrats won't have to be fighting Democratic administration proposals that waved a red flag in the face of the "rebels."

Wholesale Price Index Shows Rise

Washington (AP)—Wholesale prices as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics increased one-tenth of one per cent during the week ended Dec. 30.

The Bureau said its index at the end of the week was 109.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

Farm products rose one-tenth of one per cent, with higher prices recorded for fresh fruits, hogs, lambs, live poultry and copra. Most grains and cattle declined.

Eggs, raw cotton and soy beans were fractionally lower, but meats, lard, butter and cottonseed oil were up a bit. Processed foods as a group were up three-tenths of one per cent.

Three Members Of Marsh Family, Stroudsburg, Lose Appeals For Share In Garrett Fortune

Philadelphia (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court yesterday dismissed separately 14 appeals in the 22-year-old Garrett estate case, finally paving the way for distribution of the $17 million dollar snuff fortune.

The state's highest court affirmed a decree handed down in 1931 by the Philadelphia Orphans Court which awarded the money to the heirs or assigns of three late first cousins of the late Henrietta S. Garrett.

The appeals were taken by six family groups to the high court and were dismissed as such.

"The findings of the court below," the Supreme Court said in its decision, "satisfied everyone but 26,000 disappointed claimants."

Legislature Holds Brief Session Today

Harrisburg (AP)—The 1953 Pennsylvania Legislature opens today with prospects strong for a brief, colorful ceremony, against a backdrop of the host of controversial issues which have been set aside for the first session festivities.

The opening day will be given over largely to installing Republican officials of the Senate and House and hearing Gov. John S. Fine's message on the state of the Commonwealth.

But the big issues before the Assembly—taxes, fair employment practices, truck weights, legislative re-apportionment, and possibly gambling legislation—will hover in the background all the time.

Some or all of them may be expected to break out into the open when the Assembly resumes on Jan. 26 after the one-day opening session. The recess was agreed upon because of the State Farm Show next week and President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower's inauguration Jan. 20.

On the eve of what most legislative leaders expect to be at least a six-month-long session, Fine declared:

"I hope the session will be short and will pass a lot of long-needed legislation. In this is included re-apportionment of the state's legislative districts and calling a constitutional convention."

The governor spent the day working on his message to the Assembly which will be delivered before a joint session of both houses at 3 p.m. The Legislature convenes at noon.

The gavel will bang in the House for the first time at 11 a.m. to signify that the opening of the 1953 session is only an hour away. Doing the honors will be Rep. Norman Wood (R-Lancaster), oldest member in point of service.

Another traditional step is the mass swearing in of the lawmakers. Then will come the election of officers.

Stevenson Plans Trips To Asia And West Indies

Springfield, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, titular head of the Democratic party, said yesterday he has "no political plans or ambitions" but will "always be available for such advice as I can offer."

The defeated Democratic presidential nominee, who next week will leave the office of governor of Illinois, told a news conference he was not "disheartened" about the presidential election. He said he had no regrets about the campaign "except for the disappointment of many devoted friends throughout the country."

Stevenson said he will take a vacation in the West Indies soon before starting a tour of Asia about March 1.

Conductor Killed By Freight Train

Middletown, N. Y. (AP)—Peter W. Johnson, 57-year-old Erie Railroad conductor, of Unionville, N. Y., died yesterday beneath the cars of a passing Erie passenger train.

Orange County Coroner Homer March termed the death a suicide after members of the train crew said they saw Johnson jump from the station platform into the train's path.

The appeals filed to the Supreme Court included the estates of the late Eva V. Hoover of Baldwin Township, Pa.; Mrs. Caroline McDonald Wisniewski of Omaha, Neb.; and Mrs. Stella J. Platte, Ferguson, Mo., widow and three members of the Marsh family of Stroudsburg, Pa.

Recognized as the heirs at law in the case were the three dead first cousins:

Herman A. Kretschmar of St. Louis, who assigned his share to a nephew, Wilson Primus Kretschmar of Greenville, Miss.; Dr. Howard Sigismund Kretschmar, who made his daughter, Mrs. Constance Kretschmar Cook, of

A COUPLE MORE?—Polio coin boxes by the armload were distributed last night to members of the American Association of University Women at a meeting at Stroudsburg. Volunteer Workers To Distribute Polio Coin Boxes To 600 County Establishments

Six hundred polio coin boxes will be distributed throughout the county today.

They'll be toted to scattered establishments by volunteers from the American Association of University Women's local chapter.

The women picked up their coin boxes and received the distribution lists last night at the Stroud Community House, Stroudsburg.

The coin boxes are vital in the polio campaign. They are annualy responsible for a major percentage of the money contributed by the county's residents.

They are the little boxes which are before your eyes at the lunch-wagon counter when you sit down tiredly for a quick cup of steaming black coffee. "A dime change . . . Why not drop it in? . . . somebody's got it worse than you," the coin box reminds you.

The boxes sit on the glass-topped counters in department stores, awaiting the nickels, dimes, dollars which will buy care for a hazel-eyed kid with a warped knee somewhere . . . will pay for a fragment of chemical in a distant laboratory where science is

Judge Urges Rosenbergs To Seek Clemency

New York (AP)—The sentencing judge all but reprieved the Rosenbergs atom spy team yesterday until the White House decides whether they must die for treason.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, keeping an earlier promise, said the execution of Julius Rosenberg and his wife Ethel will be stayed automatically if they apply for presidential clemency by Saturday—four days before their scheduled Jan. 14 electrocution in Sing Sing Prison.

His stay would hold until five days after President Truman or President-elect Eisenhower makes a decision. Eisenhower takes office Jan. 20 and Truman may prefer to leave the decision to him.

The White House seems the only recourse now for the husband-wife traitor team.

Chicago, housewife, his heir; and Johann Peter Christian Schaefer of Bad Nauheim, Germany. The heirs, mostly German farm folk, found that the U. S. alien property custodian had assumed title to the share which they will receive.

Although it did not figure in the adjudication, 11 others besides the assignees will share in the fortune through an agreement made last year.

The court said it was refusing to open "the doors to a fishing expedition" in trying to establish who were the rightful heirs.

In view of the facts reviewed, the high court said, the "burden of proving any claim at this late date must be in fairness and justice be a heavy one for unlike Tennyson's brook, the Garrett estate cannot go on forever."

Chicago, (AP)—The government yesterday asked dismissal of 83 defendants—48 of them children—from its anti-trust suit against the du Pont industrial empire.

trying to blast the disease forever . . . will pay for the whirlpool bath therapy to restore life to a woman's useless arm . . .

Residents will see the boxes in pharmacies, movie theaters, hotel lobbies, shoe stores, service stations, offices, factories, taverns, bowling alleys—wherever people meet to carry on the business of living, people who have never left the black, withering touch of polio.

The dimes and dollars which will go into the boxes are the lifeblood of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. And the foundation is the lifeblood of tens of thousands of polio victims who would be helpless but for its quick, unstinting aid and immediate relief.

It represents the largest number of coin boxes to be distributed in Monroe County so far, according to Joe Small, polio campaign chairman.

The boxes this year are in the form of miniature respirators or "iron lungs." They're mounted on cardboard stands which bear a photograph of the 1953 March of Dimes Campaign kids—two little girls who suffered polio. One, who has recovered, is stooping to fasten iron braces to the leg of her sister. "You Can Help, Too," says the slogan.

The respirator-shaped coin boxes are appropriate, Small said. He produced figures to show that the 1952 epidemic—history's worst—resulted in 2,175 emergency requests to the polio foundation for iron lungs.

This was not only an all-time single-year record, Small said, but surpassed the number supplied in the three previous years combined.

The coin boxes will be at hand throughout the county during the rest of the month-long campaign.

"We've never had a coin box filled so full it had to be replaced with a new one," Miss Helen Kulp said yesterday. " . . . but we're certainly hoping it'll happen this year. We need it badly."

"And if any coin box is filled so full it won't take any more donations, let us know. We'll have a new one there in an hour."

House GOP Sets Sights On Tax Cut, Balanced Budget

Washington, (AP)—Republican leaders in the House, where appropriations and tax bills start, set their sights last night on simultaneously balancing the budget and trimming taxes.

"I think we can do it," said House Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind.). "Not right away, of course, but later on as we see what we can do with appropriations."

Some senators, though, aren't so sure about that.

Actually, the new Republican Congress can't do much of anything right away about drafting new laws or revamping old ones. Committees through which legislation flows aren't set up for business yet and won't be for a week or so.

But there will be other things to occupy the lawmakers: The counting of electoral ballots from the November election, a Senate scrap over the filibuster, three messages from outgoing President Truman.

First major project is a combined meeting of Senate and House in the House chamber this afternoon to tally electoral votes and officially pronounce Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower the winner of the presidential election. This is one ballot whose outcome can be predicted with some confidence—442 for Eisenhower, 89 for Democratic nominee Adlai E. Stevenson.

By the same margin, it will be former Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California over Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama for the vice presidency.

Exactly two weeks later, Eisenhower and Nixon will take their oaths of office on the Capitol steps and the government will be back under full Republican control for the first time in 20 years.

The electoral vote count is just a formality.

President Hits Back At Critics

Washington, (AP)—President Truman hit back yesterday at critics of a special presidential commission set up to study the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act.

Truman said attacks on the commission, which recommended opening America's gates to 250,000 aliens annually, were unwarranted and "politically motivated."

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), co-author of the controversial legislation, previously had denounced opponents of the act as including "out-and-out Reds," "Pinks" and "demagogues who would auction the interests of America for alleged minority bloc votes."

Rubinstein May Remain At Liberty

Washington (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that Serge Rubinstein may remain at liberty until a lower court passes on the government's proceedings to deport him.

Rubinstein, a New York financier who was born in Russia 45 years ago, has been fighting deportation off and on for the last 10 years.

The latest move to get him out of the country is based on a 1947 conviction for draft dodging.

Strict Secrecy Marks Talks On World Affairs

New York (AP)—Old friends Dwight D. Eisenhower and Winston Churchill got together for dinner last night after an earlier conference at which they had an opportunity to discuss world affairs.

There wasn't the slightest hint afterward of what they said to each other at the conference, and no word was expected from either participant.

The U. S. President-elect and the Prime Minister of Great Britain were guests at the apartment of elder statesman Bernard Baruch, just off Fifth Ave. on East 66th St.

Eisenhower and Churchill, who arrived from England yesterday morning aboard the liner Queen Mary with an assertion that Allied action in Korea has given the world a hope for peace, met twice at Baruch's residence.

The first session lasted about an hour and 40 minutes.

Then Eisenhower continued his interrupted journey from his Commodore Hotel headquarters to his residence at Columbia University, changed into a dinner jacket, and returned to Baruch's home for dinner with the Prime Minister and a few close friends.

Eisenhower's headquarters said no formal agenda had been arranged, but possible subjects for discussion with Churchill included Eisenhower's recent trip to Korea, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin's recent statement indicating willingness to meet with the President-elect, and Britain's economic difficulties.

On Eisenhower's arrival for dinner at Baruch's residence, an anti-British organization known as the Irish-American Minute Men was picketing the house.

Pickets carried signs saying: "Windy Winnie blew in for another five billion dollars."

"There will always be an England—with her hand out."

"U. S. has the best friends money can buy."

"England is called the 'mother country' because she is always expecting."

As Eisenhower left his car, a woman called to him: "I like Winnie and you like Winnie."

Eisenhower grinned broadly, waved, and hustled into the apartment building.

The pre-dinner talks between the President-elect and Churchill took place in strictest secrecy.

They took comfortable seats in front of the living room fireplace for what had been billed in advance as mere informal talks with no particular subject specified.

However, as Churchill arrived on the liner Queen Mary, he spoke on numerous world topics at a shipboard news conference.

Among other things, he said that Allied action in Korea has given the world a "hopeful future" for peace, but that he opposes any extension of that war.

He also asserted that the danger of another world war has receded. He credited resistance to Soviet aggression in Korea as the main reason for that.

Nevertheless, he warned against widening the fighting there, declaring that the "center of gravity" for peace "lies along the frontiers of the Iron Curtain in Europe"—not in Korea.

Despite the stated informality of Eisenhower's and Churchill's discussions last night, many pressing problems hung above their heads.

These questions, ranging around the world from Korea to Europe, were as portentous as those which took their attention during meetings in World War II.

In those days, Churchill also headed the British government while Eisenhower was the supreme commander of Allied military forces in Europe.

Baruch, an adviser to many U. S. presidents and a kind of elder statesman on all the nation's affairs, has had a long friendship with both Churchill and Eisenhower.

Court Refuses To Rule On T-H Injunction

Washington (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers failed yesterday in their effort to get a quick Supreme Court ruling on the validity of the Taft-Hartley law.

The court turned down without comment a request of the union for a review of a decision by U. S. District Judge John Knight of Buffalo Dec. 29 holding the provision constitutional.

What the union tried to do was bypass the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York in order to obtain a quick Supreme Court decision.

Now, CIO officials said, they will make every effort to get an early ruling from the Court of Appeals. An appeal already has been lodged there. Union attorneys explained it was necessary to file formal proceedings in the intermediate court before they could present their case to the Supreme Court.

Bypassing appellate courts is authorized in some cases. One example was the steel seizure case last year. That case went directly from the U. S. District Court here to the Supreme Court without an intervening ruling by an appeals court.

Board To Build Picnic Pavilion At Playground

Leon Koster, store owner, was reelected president of East Stroudsburg's Recreation Board at a meeting last night at the municipal building.

Other officers reelected were: James S. Bunnell, vice-president; James Koppenhaver, treasurer; Carl Secor, secretary.

Most of the discussion centered around a proposed picnic pavilion scheduled for construction in the Spring.

The structure will be 30 by 90, a rustic-type affair, with provision for fireplace cooking, and shelter for large picnics. It will be erected in the borough's playground off Day St.

The money for the building is not appropriated by the borough, but comes from funds in the recreation board's treasury. The board gets its money from operating the concession stand at the playground.

Horace Walters is chairman of the building and grounds committee. His committee will be in charge of the construction of the pavilion. Help will also be given by Henry Lesoine, borough superintendent.

It is expected the pavilion will be in use next Summer.

Conservation Discussed

Soil conservation discussions occupied county commissioners most of the day yesterday at the Court House.

They met with Atlee Rebert, Monroe County Soil Conservation technician, and Donald Dinsmore, supervisor of the Soil Conservation District.

The two conservation men discussed the practices recommended by the district to keep soil on the farmlands and hills of the county.

The local soil conservation district is short a board member at present because of the end of the term of William R. High, Effort, Chief Clerk Harry Taylor said he has written to the Pocono Forestry Association, Monroe County Pomona Grange No. 64, County Milk Producers Cooperative Association, and National Farm Loan Association of Allentown, asking each organization to submit the names of two prospective appointees.

Amzi F. Altomose, chairman of the board of the soil conservation district in the county, said the board would like to make the appointment some time this month.

CHRYSLER'S New Yorker DE LUXE

IT IS MORE CAR THAN YOU BELIEVED COULD EXIST...

If you're buying a car in the better ranges, there's a special reason this year to drive a Chrysler New Yorker before you decide. In this car are values you won't find elsewhere at any price today. Its great engine is not just surpassingly powerful, but new in performance and ruggedness. Irregularities Disclosed At Mayfield Bank

Scranton, (AP)—John A. Hart Sr., president of the Mayfield State Bank at Mayfield, 15 miles north of here, disclosed yesterday that "a year-end examination of the records of the bank show that some irregularities exist."

The bank directors have called for the resignation of Michael Senio, cashier and director. Senio was unavailable for comment.

A spokesman for the FBI in Philadelphia said they were investigating to see if any federal banking laws had been violated but declined any further comment.

Ex-Premier Hepburn Dies

St. Thomas, Ont., (AP)—Mitchell F. Hepburn, who gave Ontario province eight turbulent years as its unpredictable premier, died of a heart attack yesterday. He was 56.

A showman in politics, Hepburn was elected to the federal House of Commons in 1926 as its youngest member when he was less than 30. He took command of the Ontario government as Liberal party premier in 1934 at the age of 37.

His political career included a bitter feud with the late Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, wartime Liberal leader in Canada, the wiping out of prohibition and the fostering of measures to save the famed Dionne quintuplets, now 18, from exploitation.

On Oct. 21, 1942 "Mitch" Hepburn suddenly and dramatically announced his resignation as Ontario's premier because he said Liberal party politics and pressures were interfering with his administration and retarding the war effort.

Polio Crutch Yields $62 In Two Nights

Pouring out of the Polio Crutch came $62.45 yesterday.

It was the first time the money had been taken from the crutch which symbolizes the current polio campaign.

The crutch was stuffed with bills and coins in two nights it was on display at the VFW in Stroudsburg. The bulk of the money was put in Saturday night, at a dance when band leader Bernie Whitman kept interrupting songs until more coins were put in the crutch. The rest was dropped into the crutch at a Sunday night dance.

The money was taken from the crutch and counted yesterday morning, then deposited in the Polio Chapter's account in the bank.

The crutch will be taken today to the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg. There it will keep a date with the Stroudsburg Lions Club.

Joe Small, a Lion and also chairman of the polio campaign, said last night he hopes the symbolic crutch will get "good treatment" at the Lions.

Three Lose Pleas On Speeding Counts

Fourth Case Dismissed By Court

Three men who appealed against charges of speeding were found guilty in county court yesterday.

The case against a fourth was dismissed.

In each case where there was a finding of guilty the fine levied by President Judge Fred W. Davis was $10. However it is also customary for the State Department of Internal Revenue to suspend an operator's license if he is found guilty of speeding.

One defendant, who served as his own counsel, complained on the witness stand that the arresting officer answered, when asked to give his last name: "Save yourself a lot of phone calls, I don't 'fix'."

The defendant, Samuel Pisarev, Bethlehem, who described himself as a "government worker," said he was driving from Brodheads-ville to Scranton in October 1951. He said he was stopped on Route 611 near Tobyhanna by the Daleville trooper, who told him the squad car had been following him for five miles.

Police said on the stand they had clocked Pisarev at 65 to 70 miles an hour, and that when arrested, the defendant said, "If I was speeding I was driving carefully, not recklessly..."

Pisarev was found guilty. One of the longest hearings involved Raymond Moyer, of Stroudsburg and Towanda, who police said was driving 65 miles an hour along Route 611 until he was stopped near Tobyhanna in February 1952.

Moyer, represented by Andrew Homanich of Stroudsburg, was in disagreement with Pfc. Robert J. McDonnell, prosecutor.

Moyer said a car passed him "at a very high rate of speed" just before he was stopped by police. The trooper, on the other hand, said there was no car between the police car and Moyer's when the chase started.

Under cross examination by District Attorney Elmer D. Christine, who presented the case for the Commonwealth, Moyer and his stepdaughter, Victoria, a passenger, insisted that three or four cars passed him just before the arrest.

The two claimed that within a space of 50 yards they were passed by the speeding car; looked down to check their own speed, which both agreed was about 45 miles an hour; saw a police car pull alongside and motion them to pull over; pulled over to the side and stopped.

It took about a minute, they claimed, from the time the car passed them to the time they were stopped.

Moyer was found guilty.

Charles Conrad, a Scranton student represented by Detleff A. Hansen, Stroudsburg, also was found guilty of speeding. He was arrested near Tobyhanna Nov. 30, 1951.

Judge Davis granted a motion to quash in a speeding case against Joseph Newcomb, Carbondale, an Air Force sergeant. Christine agreed that the transcript prepared by the justice of the peace was faulty. Judge Davis then granted the motion made by Homanich.

Rails Open Wage Talks

New York, (AP)—The nation's railroads opened wage talks with 21 unions yesterday in behalf of a million and a half employees. The conferences are secret and no results were announced.

Dr. Paul N. Guthrie of the University of North Carolina, was asked by President Truman to determine if federal policy permits annual productivity wage increases and, if so, to decide how much.

A week ago, Guthrie ruled that wages can be boosted on the basis of higher output per man hour.

He now is trying to get the unions and the railroads to agree on a figure. If they can't, Guthrie will set one.

Social Security Program Adopted For County Workers

Forty-two county employees will be in the Social Security program as a result of yesterday's action by commissioners.

Commissioners Amdt F. Altmore, W. Adolph Rake and Granville Shiffer approved county participation in the program.

The effective date was made retroactive to Jan. 7, 1952. The 42 employees include all on the county payroll both in the Court House and Institution District.

More Court House workers may be included if employees of fee offices decide to come in too. The program is mandatory for payroll employees, but voluntary for employees in fee offices.

Cost to the county per year under the present pay scale will be about $1,300. This represents 1.5 per cent of the employee's salary, and is paid out of county funds. The employee has an additional 1.5 per cent deducted from his pay and this also is contributed to the program.

Of the fee offices, Register and Recorder Floyd Butz has so far expressed a desire to have his employees come under the program. Butz said unofficially that he would be willing to pay the 1.5 per cent contributed by the employer "if my girls want to join."

The decision to join the social securities program was taken by commissioners only after making a thorough check to find out the desire of the county employees involved.

Entry of many farm products such as eggs, dressed turkeys, apples, potatoes, grains, honey and vegetables may be made as late as Saturday and even Monday morning for some perishables.

Most early arrivals yesterday were farm machinery and farm home appliances. All available space in the huge farm show building is reserved.

At least one farm machine is said to be so startling new in principle that it is being "kept under wraps" for special unveiling ceremonies on the morning of opening day.

Entry of 33 two-horse teams in the farm show championship pulling contests for farm work horses was announced by the farm show commission.

The total is three more than entered the 1952 farm show contests for heavyweight and lightweight teams. Preliminary pulls will be held on next Wednesday afternoon with the finals to be staged at night.

Clubs Oppose Removal Of Appeal Power

Unanimous opposition was launched last night by Monroe County Federation of Social and Fraternal Organizations against a measure to be introduced with powerful backing in the state legislature which would remove power of appeal to the courts from the Liquor Control Board's decisions.

Under the proposed legislation which is to be promptly introduced, matters in the nature of an appeal would be vested solely in the Department of Justice of the Commonwealth. There would be no decision from the ruling of the Justice Department.

Meeting at the Italian Club last night federation members reviewed the legislative reports and trends. Only measure definitely reported ready for immediate introduction was the one removing power of appeal to county courts.

This power, federation members said in a resolution, is a distinct part of all free democratic processes. In the courts, the resolution held, remains the final refuge for any citizen or group of citizens for maintenance of his freedoms.

George W. Price, federation president, directed that each club name one member to a legislative committee to deal with matters during this legislative year.

Next meeting of the club will be held in March when officers will be nominated and elected.

The State's Hospitals

One of the study groups for the "Little Hoover" Commission investigating economies in the state government made a helpful suggestion the other day.

This suggestion was to the effect that the state should get rid of ten general hospitals which it owns and operates. We'd like to second that motion.

It may come as a surprise to many Pennsylvanians who don't believe in socialized medicine that the state is in the hospital business. We are, and we have been for years.

The way we happened to get into it—and stay in it—is a good example of how the state can acquire expensive new functions and then hang onto them long after the original reasons for them became obsolete.

The hospital originally were started in the last century as miners' hospitals and most of them were located in the hard coal areas of Eastern Pennsylvania. To balance things up politically, two of them later were located in the soft coal area, as Connellsville and Philipsburg.

Other communities provided their own hospital service, through voluntary action. In the case of the hard coal communities, there were not the local resources to support such a move, although there was dire need for hospital facilities because of the dangers of mining.

So the state built and operated the hospitals. For this two-year period they are costing $9,750,000 of which only a little more than $2 millions is repaid by those receiving care.

At the same time, the state is paying to all the other hospitals in the state $15,365,000 to reimburse them for care of charity patients.

There's a lack of balance in this program. We're providing a lot more hospital care to the residents of 10 communities than we are to the people of other parts of the state.

Meanwhile, the communities who benefit by these plums have become as capable as many others to support their own hospitals. In fact, some of the areas served by the hospitals no longer are predominantly mining areas.

The saving in getting rid of them may not be great, but it's sizeable and if we don't do it, somebody is going to have to pay the taxes. We hope the Legislature decides to give the hospitals away.

The Impossible?

Each day we find ourselves looking for the news report on the condition of the twins from Chicago, Rodney and Roger Brodie.

For two weeks these twins have been in the minds and prayers of a good part of the country.

As separated Siamese twins, they may still do what has not been done before, and that is to live after a head separation operation.

A day-long operation was performed by a group of surgeons on the Brodie twins, and although they are still alive two weeks later, their condition is still critical.

Our thoughts and prayers are with the parents of these little twin boys in their hours of anxiety.

That's all right, doctor. We never believed that rumor in the first place.

"I see you are back again as head man in England."

"Yes, into each life some rain must fall. How are you feeling, Ike?"

"Just a little more worried than immediately before the channel crossing in opening that second front."

"Moving into the White House can't be as bad as that."

"I often wonder, Well, Winnie, what's on your mind. Heaven forbid!"

"Oh, I just dropped in for a social visit."

"Come, come, let's be candid. What brings you here?"

"Well, I must confess I didn't come to see the Japanese cherry trees in midwinter, go skating in Radio City or try to make the Godfrey talent scout program. I'll give you three guesses."

"I know; you came to attend one of my inaugural balls."

"No, I'm saving my feet for the Coronation waltzes."

"You came to tell me all about that awful London fog and that last race your horse lost."

"No, Ike. You are getting warmer."

"You came to discuss the world fog, perhaps."

"It's really nothing much . . . There's the British economic crisis, the problem of trade balances, the China question, the menacing tone in all U. S. S. R. statements, the situation in Germany, Austria, Africa, Tunisia, Indonesia and Korea, Stalin's latest replies, the oil deadlock with Iran and . . . it seems to me there were a few other items, which may come to mind unless I have good luck."

"I feel relieved. I was afraid you might have something really troubling you!"

"Not at all, Tennis, anyone?"

World-Famous Rhodes Scholars To Be Probed

Washington Report - - - By Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington — The world-famous Rhodes scholars will be investigated.

They will be probed by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

It is on the trail of Communist infiltration in this elite band of college men.

The Committee already has some evidence along this line.

The information was developed unexpectedly and in a curious way.

Last September, the Committee held a series of closed-door hearings in Chicago to ferret out Communist activities in Local 317 of the United Packinghouse Workers. One witness turned out to be an ex-Communist.

This surprise witness, in addition to giving the probers a lot of data on Red operations in the union, also exploded a bombshell about Rhodes scholars.

He charged the Communists are infiltrating the select ranks of Rhodes scholars and cited one instance as proof of that. He asserted that two Americans were recruited into the Communist party while studying at Oxford (England) under Rhodes scholarship grants.

The House Committee has the names of the two alleged Reds.

The sensational witness also gave considerable testimony concerning Communist activities and undercover organizations on the campuses of the University of Chicago and Roosevelt College in Chicago.

Rhodes scholarships were established by Cecil Rhodes, who made a huge fortune in South Africa. His purpose was to establish closer bonds between Britain and its far-flung colonies.

In 1904, the project was enlarged to include the United States. Originally, two scholarships were allotted to each of the 48 states, but later this number was reduced to 32 annual appointments. Each scholarship is for three years at England's famous Oxford University.

More than 1,200 Americans have received these highly-prized appointments, that are awarded after stiff examinations. The elite list includes leaders in every field—education, clergy, science, the armed services, business, banking, public office, the arts, medicine, labor and agriculture.

Three members of Congress are Rhodes scholars: Senator J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), one-time president of the University of Arkansas; Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo.), who is chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Uncle Sam, but he defied the Senate committee, raised quite a ruckus during its hearings, defended Commie leaders of the union whose leaders are allegedly 90 per cent Commies, and had to be ejected from the hearing.

This is the first time any U. S. military leader, other than the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has received this super-secret information.

Ridgway got it for the express purpose of enabling him and the European NATO commanders to plan their defenses in the event of Soviet aggression. Previously, detailed plans could not be prepared because the military chiefs directly responsible for that did not know what they could count on in the way of atomic weapons.

The atomic data given Ridgway will go no further than him. He alone will be the custodian of this crucial knowledge.

"Artists' Front To Win The War" Had Chaplain Sit As Honorary Chairman

These Days - - - - - By George Sokolsky

Charlie Chaplin

It was suggested to me that I go to see Charlie Chaplin's picture, "Limelight," but I could find no particular reason for adding to the little clown's fortune, even the mite that would pay for a ticket or two. The Attorney General of the United States has made it clear that Chaplin will not be readmitted to the United States and, as it stands today, when he tries to come in, if he ever does, there will be a hearing and Chaplin will be asked many questions which maybe he can answer.

This fellow has been living in the United States 42 years. He came here a wandering actor and because of art, genius, ability, he has amassed many millions of dollars which he has managed to hold onto with a sort of rigor mortis.

Chaplin has lived here during two wars and a great depression and he has never shown a normal big-heartedness which is so characteristic of most rich men in this country in times of distress. In World War II, when actors and actresses risked their lives to entertain our troops, Charlie Chaplin sat it out.

I do not like what is in the record of his private life. I should not like any member of my family to imitate him. Therefore, I have instructed my children that I disapprove of him personally and that if they contribute to his wealth, it is against my principles.

For instance, it is difficult to find Chaplin's name in association with any American patriotic organizations because he says that he is an internationalist, but he presided as honorary chairman of the "Artists' Front to Win the War." Chaplin came to New York from Hollywood purposely to attend this meeting at Carnegie Hall, on October 16, 1942 — he who usually stayed away from meetings. He addressed the gathering as "Comrades!" He called for an immediate second front, which was Stalin's propaganda and for which we were not ready.

The history of the second front propaganda is well known, I am sure, as one of the most shameful efforts of an ally to place its supporting country in an untenable position.

Chaplin praised Roosevelt not as a leader of the American people, but as "the man who released

Lest some smart-aleck British reporter say that to refuse to see Chaplin is to be anti-British, may I point to the fine Britishers on the American stage, such men as Bob Hope, Charles Laughton and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, who are the salt of the earth and have won the love and respect of Americans of all kinds. Bob Hope's contributions to U. S. O. will never be forgotten.

It does not matter if a Britisher wants to be loyal to his king or queen or whether he decides that, living in this country, he wishes to enter more fully into its life by becoming a citizen. Only an individual can decide that for himself. But this Chaplin has expressed contempt for the United States. He has built no record of support for American institutions but he has joined in support of pro-Russian activities.

For instance, it is difficult to find Chaplin's name in association with any American patriotic organizations because he says that he is an internationalist, but he presided as honorary chairman of the "Artists' Front to Win the War." The history of the second front propaganda is well known, I am sure, as one of the most shameful efforts of an ally to place its supporting country in an untenable position.

Chaplin praised Roosevelt not as a leader of the American people, but as "the man who released Browder." Communist leader, from prison. He praised Harry Bridges. He praised Communists as "ordinary people like ourselves, who love beauty, who love life." He added, "They say Communism may spread out all over the world. And I say—so what?"

Many men and women in the motion picture industry have recognized that America is in danger and have toed the mark of loyalty under great emotional stress. Some have appeared before Congressional committees to tell the truth as they knew it. Others have voluntarily given their records to the FBI. Several hundred have written letters to their employers explaining their errors. Recently such men as John Huston, Jose Ferrer, Elia Kazan, Carson Kallin and others have cleared themselves of charges and citations.

But not Charlie Chaplin. He continues his cynical course. He flouts the Attorney General of the United States. His press agents give him a build-up in Europe to influence public opinion in America.

Why is he to be a privileged character? Is it because he is so rich? Is it because he is a better clown than other clowns? Surely Americans can survive without seeing any more of Charlie Chaplin.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

"Which is the better place to live—the city or the country?" That is a question which I have been asked so many times by readers that I recently decided to conduct a survey.

Surveys seem to be all the rage these days. I must be on some sucker list because there is hardly a day that some kind of a survey isn't shot at me. Yesterday I was asked which is my favorite cheese. Last week some outfit wanted to know what brand of cigarettes I smoke and why. My answer was, any brand that is given to me, and to the "why," because that is the cheapest way.

But back to city vs. country. I queried about 50 people, half in the country and half in the city.

The strange thing about it is that most of the people who thought country living is best were people who live in the city, while the majority of the people who would prefer life in the city were country folks.

Furthermore, there were many, many more city dwellers who hoped to get out into the country some day than country dwellers who had any ambition to live in the city.

I got the general idea that all in all country people are much more satisfied with their life than city people.

I am not talking about that strange breed of citizens, the "commuter." He is neither flesh nor fowl. He is the man who works and THINKS in the city, but sleeps in the SUBURBS.

Try And Stop Me

A book called Training You to Train Your Dog, by Blanche Saunders, is appearing just in time to preserve a semblance of order in the Cerf household. Some time ago, my partner Robert Haas presented us with a handsome Boxer puppy named "Chip." We began training him immediately. As a result, one need only call "Here, Chip!" to see him turn tail and head for the next county. At the command, "Down, Chip!" he obediently jumps on top of you, streaking mud on your clean shirt and tearing a gash in your pants with his nails. His diet is varied. To-day, for instance, he ate only four beach cushions, a pair of lace curtains, a tennis shoe, a ladies' bathing suit, and a copy of "The Brothers Karamazov." When I roared my kids glared at me as though I were Simon Legree and my wife asked, "Were YOU housebroken when you were six months old?" I was so conscience-stricken I gave Chip a pair of expensive bedroom slippers.

Wilkes-Barre Girl Slain By Jealous Cop

Washington (AP)—Police Chief Robert V. Murray said yesterday a 29-year-old Washington policeman, who was cited for heroism two years ago, surrendered and confessed killing his 23-year-old fiancée in a fit of jealousy.

The victim was identified as Miss Alyce Hnativ, a petite brunette, formerly of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. She had been employed here as a stenographer in the Military Sea Transport Service.

Chief Murray said Police Pvt. William Closson, formerly of Altoona, Pa., gave himself up at his own precinct station seven hours after the shooting.

Murray said Closson, who twice has been nominated as Washington's "policeman of the month," admitted shooting Miss Hnativ with his .38-caliber police revolver during a struggle. He quoted Closson as saying that "things became cloudy."

Closson, who has been on the metropolitan police force since 1949, was cited as a hero in May, 1950, when he rescued a 3-month-old girl from a flaming room.

Police said Miss Hnativ was shot at least twice—in the breast and neck. She was found lying on the kitchen floor, fully dressed except for shoes, in an apartment rented in Closson's name.

Closson was taken to Gallinger Hospital with a gunshot wound in his left foot and later was placed in the detention ward. Capt. Richard Felber, chief of the homicide squad, said Closson would be charged with murder.

The victim, who was of Lithuanian descent, was described as 5 feet 3, weighing 107 pounds, with brown hair and hazel eyes.

Police gave this account of events leading up to the shooting: Miss Hnativ met Closson about a year and a half ago and about six months ago they decided to be married. Closson maintained his own apartment, while Miss Hnativ lived in a nearby apartment where the shooting occurred.

Sunday night Miss Hnativ returned from a holiday visit to Wilkes-Barre. She telephoned her fiancé to meet her at her apartment. Closson arrived about midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Kostolow, who live on the same floor in Miss Hnativ's apartment building, told police:

"We were awakened about 4 a. m., by an argument and sounds of a scuffle.

"We heard a girl say, 'Billy, don't, don't, don't, please don't. I'll throw it, I'll break it.'"

Then came a man's voice, they said, counting slowly:

"One . . . two . . . three . . ."

"We heard something like a table falling, then three shots," the neighbors said.

Mrs. Kostolow said she telephoned police, but thought the shots came from another building nearby and gave police the wrong address. The slaying did not become known until Closson walked into his precinct headquarters at 11 a. m.

Police quoted Closson as saying he began quarreling with his fiancée when he accused her of "running around with other men." He said he had had two beers. Miss Hnativ did not drink.

Closson told police that after the shooting he tried to revive his fiancée with artificial respiration. When that failed, he said, he wiped up the kitchen floor, threw two discharged cartridges into the ash can, and remained with the dead girl until after daybreak.

Miss Hnativ had been working at her Navy Department job here less than a year. She had previously been employed as an X-ray technician at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital for about three years.

Her mother, Mrs. Martha Hnativ is still employed at the hospital as a domestic.

Closson won special praise last Oct. 4 for his part in arresting a crazed gunman who had killed one man and threatened others in a local restaurant.

Dying Horse Abandoned At Side Of Road; Destroyed By State Trooper, SPCA Agent

Tannersville—An aged horse that was abandoned here yesterday morning by a trucker was destroyed by a State policeman from the Stroudsburg station at authorization by the Monroe County chapter, Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The jet black animal was left by the side of the road leading to Appenzell, within view of Pocono Township High School, at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Marjorie Wakefield, SPCA representative accompanied Trooper Peter Walsh of the Stroudsburg barracks to the scene after two calls informed her of the animal's abandonment. Shortly after Walsh destroyed the animal, at 2:10 p. m., the trucker stopped at the scene enroute home from a dog feed company in Dublin, Pa., where he was headed when he left the horse off.

The trucker, who identified himself as Fred T. Evans, of Scranton, told Mrs. Wakefield and Walsh the animal fell down in the truck as it approached Tannersville and he left it fearing its position in the truck also would force others of the seven in the cargo to drop.

Evans said the six horses left standing were trampling the downed animal and claimed he called a Scranton "dead-stock" man from a Tannersville garage to "come down and pick this one up." He set the time as 10 a. m., then continued to Dublin where he discharged the other horses and returned to Tannersville.

Mrs. Wakefield reprimanded Evans for not staying with the dying animal until it was taken away or destroyed. Evans termed the incident "unusual" saying he'd never experienced anything like it during the years he has been hauling horses.

Two calls to the SPCA headquarters in Stroudsburg asked the animal be destroyed because of its dying condition, and because school children were flocking to the spot.

Evans agreed to stay at Tannersville until the Scranton "dead stock man" could claim the horse, believed to be about 15 years old. It was 4:15 p. m. when the truck arrived, and the horse was taken away.

Many Questions On Incodel Answered By Forester At Open Meeting Of AAUW

"What, or who, is holding up Pennsylvania's ratification of Incodel's plan for conserving the resources of the Delaware River?" seemed to be the main question being debated at the meeting of the American Association of University Women last night when Harvey R. Franz, forester for the interstate commission had explained the plan through a moving picture and through answering questions. The meeting was held at the Stroud Community House.

The visitors from the Bushkill area at the meeting last night might well form a small segment of opposition since one of the proposed dams, the one at Walpack Bend would place both Bushkill and Dingman's Ferry under the waters of the dam.

Their small numbers, however, did not seem enough to explain Pennsylvania's delay in ratifying the plan which has already been approved by the states of New York, New Jersey and Delaware.

Mr. Franz in answering the direct question, said that Pennsylvania's engineer had missed several sessions of the survey meetings, and the state felt it wanted more time to study the plans, to be sure that Pennsylvania was getting its full share, and that it might be voted upon at the present meeting of the legislature.

One alternative to adopting the plan, he explained, would be to return the matter of water supply to the individual states for independent action, which is what led to the creation of Incodel, the Interstate Commission on the Delaware Basin, in 1936.

As early as 1929, New York in its search for water petitioned for the right to use the East Branch of the Delaware within its boundaries, and after several years of litigation with the other states involved was allowed to proceed by the Supreme Court.

The commission was appointed to work out a plan for interstate cooperation, composed of five representatives of each state. Their first task was to form a plan to clean up the pollution of the Delaware and its tributaries which made them veritable open sewers, and this, he said, has been accomplished by similar legislation in each state. In 1949, Philadelphia and New York were again faced by a pressing need for water, and Incodel was authorized to conduct a survey and to recommend a water conservation project that would assure adequate water supplies for the future for the millions of persons within metropolitan areas in the basin.

Briefly, as Mr. Franz explained in the plan, the water now wasted in the flood seasons, would be impounded in four dams, all above Delaware Water Gap, to be released as required for adequate supply in the entire length of the Delaware. Most of the total storage capacity would be in two dams on the upper Delaware, located entirely within New York State.

The dam at Walpack Bend, about 12 miles above Water Gap, would impound water stretching up as far as Port Jervis, is the nearest to the Stroudsburgs, and would inundate both Bushkill and Dingman's Ferry, he said. Such a lake, however, would enormously increase the recreational advantages of the whole area, he said.

Other questions addressed to Mr. Franz at the meeting, included:

"Why can't New York go to the Hudson for its water?" Because, he explained, the Hudson is salt far up its length, and inadequate besides, and moreover, all New York's installations have been built toward the East Branch, and lastly, the headwaters are within their own boundaries.

"Could Pennsylvania proceed on such a project alone?" No, he answered, because there are not suitable sites within the state itself to provide enough storage, and besides, the bordering states would have something to say about it. It must be the cooperation of all four states.

"Has such a system of interstate cooperation been successfully tried before?" Only in the matter of stream pollution, he pointed out. Other states are watching this experiment as a pilot, to judge whether this might be an alternative to a fed-

AAUW Will Distribute Polio Boxes

The American Association of University Women had business, too, at their meeting at the Stroud Community House last night, when the program featured the talk on Incodel.

Looming large were the boxes of miniature iron lungs which the members of the local chapter will distribute to 600 business places throughout the county to receive contributions for the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, during this month of the March of Dimes for Polio.

Dr. Veve Dean presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Charles Albert reported on plans for the School for Parents, in March which will this year be devoted to the needs of the child in the family unit.

Dr. Dean reported cooperation in the recent Disaster Test in the county, and announced the meeting of the International Relations Study Group for the last Thursday in January. Mrs. Robert Hartman, creative arts chairman, announced plans for a meeting of the creative arts group during the third week of the month with the definite day to be set later.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Albert and the members of her committee, with Mrs. Howard Eckert presiding at the tea table.

eral commission.

"Who would control the construction of such a dam and the disposition of power rights?" Not Incodel, he said, which has completed its work, but an interstate authority or commission created for that purpose.

"Would there be restrictions on the lakes thus formed?" He thought not since the recreation advantages to be offered by such lakes were one of the strong points of the plan.

"Who in Pennsylvania is opposed to the plan?" Residents of the sections to be flooded, naturally, he said. Also opposed were interests in the upper Potomac, who hoped that Philadelphia might touch the upper Lehigh for its water supply and increase the value of the burned-over land in that area. However, Philadelphia has considered the Lehigh several times, and decided there was not enough water available there, he said.

Other opposition are from those who misunderstood the plan, whose main purpose is to insure an adequate flow of water at all times. Power derived from such dams, he said, would be secondary, and would be sold to private companies. The project itself could be 75 per cent self-liquidating through sale of water to those who use it.

His talk was illustrated with a motion picture showing the plan and through a map.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

With a million questions and speculations about Incodel rattling around in my head, and a million more or less—miniature iron lungs rattling around in the car waiting for distribution today, the journey home from work well after midnight last night was sort of a bewildering one.

It was a bewildering sort of a day, anyway, when I kept going "hurry, hurry, hurry," like a cracked record. I guess maybe the chance from vacation tempo was too abrupt. If you have a couple waltzing dreamily and then switch to a jitterbug number right in the middle, you'll naturally have them falling all over each other's feet.

It was hurry to try to bring cold jug-water to a boil for breakfast, hurry, hurry to the children dawdling over their breakfast just as if it weren't a school day.

It was hustle, hustle for the broadcast, and run, run get the sleeping done, and running out of water, even to cook with, just before dinner.

The trouble was, I didn't want to hurry at all. I wanted to talk over Cornelia May's trip when I met her in the food store. I wanted to comment on all the news that had broken while she was gone. I wanted to listen to the children's excited summary of school news. I wanted to ask more questions at the meeting. I wanted to linger over the coffee to talk to people about vacation.

So while my feet kept carrying me from one place to another, and my voice kept urging everybody else to hurry, too, my head stayed about two blocks behind. Very bewildering.

Womans Club Board Makes Contributions

The executive board of the Stroudsburg Woman's Club met yesterday afternoon at the Stroud Community House for the consideration of reports and contributions to community and world interests.

The club donated $10 to the Voice of Freedom in the name of Alexander T. Lutowski who was the speaker at their November meeting. They also voted to continue their United Nations contest with their customary prize of $25 for the winning student and a teacher to take a trip to the United Nations.

Mrs. Walter H. Caulfield, chairman of welfare announced that 48 children had been present at the Christmas party at the Well Baby Clinic, sponsored by the club. During November there were 56 children and in December 74 children at the clinics in both towns.

Mrs. Frank Kerr, chairman of the Christmas "Mitten Tree" reported that the 41 pairs of mittens donated had been distributed through the Lions Club.

Mrs. Alphonse J. Meyers, chairman of public affairs, called the attention of the members to a lecture by Commander MacMillan on Thursday morning at 10 in the college auditorium when he will speak on "Life in the North." The public is invited to these lectures.

The club had been requested to assume responsibility for the 1953 Heart Fund campaign in February, but because of the short time for preparation, they decided not to sponsor this drive.

New members taken in included Mrs. Gerald O'Neill, Miss Mary Kistler, Mrs. Townsend Baldwin and Mrs. Harvey Huffman. The resignations of Mrs. Carl Hirt, Mrs. Edward Kenney, Mrs. Samuel Sullivan and Mrs. Walter MacClelland were accepted.

Mrs. Parke Kunkle outlined plans for the member participation meeting to be held Monday, January 12.

Present for the meeting were: Mrs. George T. Robinson, president, who presided; Mrs. Claude Cramer, Mrs. Walter H. Caulfield, Mrs. Ben K. Williams, Mrs. Claude Leister, Mrs. William Toewe, Miss Miriam Lark, Mrs. E. Clyde Pyle, Mrs. I. B. Gloom Over Paris Couture Despite Government Subsidy

By Nadeane Walker

Paris—For the Paris fashion world, 1952 was a year of more setbacks than triumphs. The dressmakers got their long-promised French government subsidy (of just over a million dollars) in August, but economic experts said their loss of Eastern markets during the year was much more than that.

The year saw the brilliant debut of a new star, Hubert de Givenchy, a tall, gangling 25-year-old whose two first collections practically established him as heir apparent for Dior's fashioning crown, if he ever relinquishes it.

There were indications that even the most famous houses were having to lean more and more heavily on their "boutique" simplified, cut-price clothes for modest budgets—to keep the traditional "haute couture" going.

Fashion sources claim most houses tried to hold the price line, ceased turning up their noses at boutique customers, and began to settle down in their reduced circumstances.

The Paris dressmakers lost one of their best individual customers during the year when Eva Peron died. They lost their star mannequins when beautiful, blonde Praline was killed in an automobile accident. They suffered a minor rebellion when some 50 young designers, who claimed they had been supplying a majority of style sketches to the established houses, broke off to set up their own independent Society of Designers.

In a rather scanty mid-season of winter showings in late October and November, most designers followed Dior's Fall silhouette, proving that he is still fashion's strong man. Even Faith took back his emancipation proclamation, nipped waists in again before the ladies had hardly time to get a freed breath, and put the curves back where they belong.

One more moment, and she'd have been out of the store, never missing her purse containing the wherewithal for a trip south today. . . . New "boss" lady, Cora Albertson of our lingerie department—holding a lace trimmed yellow nightie in the air. I never thought those girls were "all wet," but it's certainly mighty damp in their neck of the woods every time "Penny's" retirement is mentioned. . . . Blanche Mackey, proudly exhibiting a stunning gold and white stole just completed after long evenings of work at home. No wonder it's lovely. Wasn't it made from our luscious Bernat Sparkle-Laine? . . . Dottie Morris has been crossing her fingers these days, hoping for snow. When the weather is blustery, women shoppers begin thinking in terms of sweaters and caps, mittens and socks, and our yarn business soars. Well, I'm for good business but please, Dottie, let's have a clear Thursday for our trip to Radio City. . . . One girl who really does tend to her knitting these days, is Edna Saylor whose job it is to break Mary Contright in on the switchboard. Two all-right numbers, those girls!

Mardie Wyckoff, protested that she'd have more fright if ever she were on a radio program. But if you heard her discussion of Edna Palmer Engelhardt's painting yesterday on our art exhibit broadcast, you'll agree that she sounded like a veteran. And if you come in to see the show, which continues through Saturday, you'll say, I'm sure, that our Monroe County artists paint like experts. They're wonderful. . . . I must write an article soon on Valentine's Day—that's when a girl can really put her heart in her work. Already a few Valentine cards are being displayed on the center table of the stationery department, along with appropriate gift wrappings. Cutest card is captioned "For a Dear Baby's First Valentine's Day." . . . They haven't been advertised yet, so here's your chance to get in while the assortment is complete. New Government Facing Early Cooperation Test

By Raymond Wilcox

Central Press Correspondent

Washington — President-elect Eisenhower's relations with the new Congress will be put to the test during the first few months of his administration.

The outcome may well determine the course the new administration will follow in its relations with the House and Senate during the next four years.

The crucial issues involved will be domestic, and not foreign, even though foreign issues pose some of the gravest problems he will have to face.

This is so because Eisenhower will command a safe majority in both houses when it comes to major international decisions.

Since the new Republican President apparently plans to pursue in international affairs a course similar to that carried on by his two Democratic predecessors, he can expect the support of most Democrats, as well as many Republicans, on foreign legislation.

It is on domestic issues that the test will come soon after he takes office Jan. 20. In his first six months Eisenhower must decide whether to permit many economic controls to die. If he decided against termination, then he must determine in what form, and to what extent, they should be re-enacted.

Price and wage controls, reciprocal trade, corporation profits, and individual income taxes are some of the important matters that the new President must act upon early in his administration. Whichever way he acts, Eisenhower will find that Congress, and the country, are sharply divided on the course to be taken.

The first problem that will face President Eisenhower—and one to which he must find an almost immediate answer—is what to do about price, wage and rent controls. These anti-inflation curbs have been in effect almost two years. They expire April 30.

It can safely be said that a majority of the 83rd Congress will favor allowing the controls to expire April 30.

Despite this, Congress can be expected to continue the controls—if President Eisenhower so requests. However, such action on the new chief executive's part would diminish his popularity with Congress, even though it is controlled by his own party.

President Eisenhower may meet the tough problem with a compromise. He may ask Congress to give the government authority to control wages, price and rents after April 30, but only on a standby basis, for use in the event of a sudden emergency.

Federal control over prices, wage and rents would then automatically end April 30. The greatest overnight change would come from the elimination of rent controls. They are now in effect for approximately 19 million persons.

The question of taxes poses another difficult problem. When Congress boosted taxes last year on corporation and individual incomes, it inserted in the law automatic termination dates.

Thus, the increased profits tax on corporations will expire next June 30, if no further action is taken, while the personal income tax boost will terminate Dec. 31.

Approximately $5 billion is involved. President Eisenhower will have to decide whether the government can afford to leave this income go. President Truman has estimated the deficit for the current fiscal year which ends June 30 will total $10 billion, 300 million.

When President Eisenhower contemplates the forthcoming deficit, he will also be faced with another fiscal problem on which an unpopular decision may have to be made. If President Truman's fiscal officers are right in their estimates, the public debt will reach $275 billion by June 30, 1953.

That is the limit permitted by existing law. President Eisenhower and the Congress may have to decide whether to increase the ceiling. Failure to do so may pose financial difficulties for the government. The public debt has already passed $267 billion.

Next June 30 the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Law also expires. This program, one of the bulwarks of the New Deal, was initiated in 1934 by Cordell Hull while secretary of state. Its purpose has been to increase world trade by reducing tariffs, both United States and foreign.

Republicans have fought the program for years. Eisenhower will have to decide whether he wishes to go along with numerous revisions which GOP congressmen have been demanding.

Drastic amendment of the tariff program which has been in effect for 18 years could have worldwide repercussions and bring adverse reactions from America's allies abroad.

With the expiration dates on these important laws looming so close after inauguration, President Eisenhower will find little time in which to bask in a nation's acclaim.

Perhaps this is why President Truman wears an almost perpetual grin these days. Along with the rewards of office go its headaches—and the new President and the new Congress face some mighty big ones.

J. L. Rumsey, M. D., will be out of town January 6th through January 14th, inclusive.—Adv.

Flood Petitions High Court For Vote Recount; 14 Appeals In Garrett Estate Dismissed

Philadelphia, AP—Pennsylvania's Supreme Court yesterday heard an appeal for a recount of votes in the hairbreadth 11th Congressional District race in Luzerne County Nov. 4.

The election, one of the closest in the state, put Republican Edward J. Bonin, former mayor of Hazleton, into office by a scant 834 votes. Bonin was sworn in Saturday as a member of the House of Representatives in Washington.

His opponent, incumbent Daniel J. Flood, was denied a recount in 411 of the county's 462 districts by the Luzerne County Common Pleas Court, which upheld the election board's ruling.

The election board contended Flood had failed to present the proper petition papers for his desired re-canvass of votes.

The high court also heard an appeal by Charles E. Homeyer, Factoryville, Pa., who seeks to have his conviction and death sentence set aside in the dismemberment-slaying of his wife, Anna.

Opinions handed down in the Supreme Court's opening session of 1953 included:

The dismissal of 14 appeals in the Henrietta E. Garrett estate case, finally paving the way for distribution of a 17 million dollar snuff fortune.

Upheld the conviction of James Morris Johnson on two murder charges in connection with the wrecking of a Reading Railroad train near Valley Forge station, Montgomery County, May 9, 1948. Two trainmen were killed.

Upheld a first degree murder conviction and death sentence for William Patsia in the 1951 hatchet slaying of his wife in Lackawanna County.

Sitting for the first time yesterday as a State Supreme Court justice was newly-elected Judge John C. Arnold. He was sworn in at the session opened.

In the Flood-Bonin recount appeal, the lower court quashed the defeated candidate's petition for a re-canvass on grounds the petition was not signed by three voters or three electors. The election board said this is required for the type of re-canvass requested.

Flood, however, presented other papers in a petition to re-open voting machines in 51 Luzerne County districts. These were accepted by the election board. The ballots were checked and no discrepancy found, according to Atty. R. Lawrence Coughlin, counsel for the election board.

Atty. James Brown, representing Flood, told the high court that in Flood's attempts to re-canvass the remaining 411 voting districts, the election board adopted "an arbitrary and capricious attitude."

Major Parties Report On Expenditures

Dilworth Calls For Revamping Of Government

Harrisburg, AP—Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia district attorney, said last night the 1953 Legislature should not vote for any new state tax until the administration agrees to reorganization of the state government.

"No one can deny that the state government will require additional taxes to carry on for the next two years," the Democratic leader said, but added:

"It is equally impossible to deny that the present tax mess—and it is a mess—has been brought about by the incompetence, the inefficiency and the machine politics of our state government."

The speech of the 1950 Democratic candidate for governor was prepared for delivery over a statewide radio network originating in Harrisburg. It came on the eve of the opening of the 1953 Legislature.

Dilworth called for a "thorough investigation of our state government by a bi-partisan committee, named by the legislature and equipped with the funds and powers required for such a job."

He charged that commissions named by the administration and currently investigating commonwealth operations were not "named in good faith."

"A commission can accomplish nothing unless it is independent," Dilworth declared. "To be independent, its members must be from both political parties, and it must be voted funds and powers by the legislature with which to operate."

"The Old Guard was careful to appoint no commission until the (1951) Legislature adjourned. Thus, the commissions were given neither any powers nor any funds."

"And, there were named to the commissions gentlemen who, while respectable, have always been in sympathy with the state administration and share its political views."

Despite this, Dilworth asserted, the Chesterman Committee has submitted nine reports that "reveal that the wasteful, inefficient, political operation of our state government is costing the taxpayers at least 35 million dollars each biennium."

The Chesterman Committee, whose official name is the State Government Survey Committee, was named by Fine to study ways of increasing economy and efficiency in the state government. It is headed by Francis J. Chesterman, Philadelphia.

Irvin Inks
Contract For Same Salary

New York (AP) — Asserting that his one-fractured right ankle was "as good as ever" husky Monte Irvin yesterday signed his 1953 contract with the New York Giants.

Happy Club officials beamed happily when the 31-year-old Negro outfielder put his signature on a contract calling for about $25,000. President Horace Stoneham said Monte received the same pay as last year.

Irvin broke his ankle in a slide to third base during an exhibition game with the Cleveland Indians in Denver last April 2. That injury just about ruined the Giants' chances of repeating as pennant winners.

Wayne County Conference Set
To Open Championship Race

Newfoundland—Action in the Wayne County Basketball Conference begins in earnest this week after the Christmas-New Year layoff and the sporadic activity of the pre-holiday schedule.

There will be plenty of court entertainment on tap every Tuesday and Friday nights from now until the end of February. Greene-Dreher-Sterling and Moscow, perennial late starters, will see their first WCC opposition this week and then all nine teams will have gotten into the fight.

The slate this week includes: Tuesday—Hawley at Moscow, Waymart at Damascus; Friday—Honesdale at Moscow, Greene-Dreher-Sterling at Waymart, Pleasant Mount at Hawley, Damascus at Lake Township.

In Stride
Waymart, taking its first three opponents in stride, appears to have all it will take to cop another crown in the loop—the fourth, if it can be done. This is the conference's fourth year of existence and the Warriors have yet to be displaced as champions.

Northern Wayne, away alertly with a 3-0 record, poses the most serious threat to the Warrior's supremacy and may continue to hound the Walshmen until the two teams clash for the first time late this month. Honesdale and Lake Township have proven that they are solid clubs and the local Stags and the Moscow Trojans could be trouble if things break right.

Peak Shape
Both Sedgman and McGregor feel the flight from their homeland didn't hurt the peak shape they reached for the late December Davis Cup matches they took from the United States team.

For the openers tonight and tomorrow night, Sedgman will face Kramer, and McGregor tangles with Segura, the Ecuador star with the famed two-handed smashes. The matches will all be two out of three sets.

Following the singles, the Aussies, who hold national double championships from France to their homeland, trade shots with the American twosome. After playing here tonight and tomorrow, the touring pros head for Madison Square Garden in New York.

Kramer, who lined up the tour and financed the $75,000 guarantee to Sedgman and $25,000 to McGregor, hopes to have about 80 playing dates during the next five months. The Aussies also hold a percentage privilege that Kramer figures will boost Sedgman's take to $100,000.

Tuesday Night League To Roll

Alleys three and four—Odd Fellows vs POS of A.

New York, (AP) — Coley Wallace, New York City heavyweight, who was supposed to meet Billy Gilliam of Orange, N. Replacement
His place against Gilliam will be taken by Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, who was defeated by Gilliam in an upset at Eastern Parkway on December 15. Gilliam and Baker have fought four times with Baker winning three of the bouts.

Swift Joins Coaching Ranks
Detroit, (AP) — Catcher Bob Swift, 36, signed his 1953 contract yesterday as a coach of the Detroit Tigers.

Mates
He will hang up his spikes and join "Rick" Ferrell and Ted Lyons on the coaching staff.

Judy Garland's Mother Found Dead In Lot

Santa Monica, Calif. (AP)—Judy Garland's mother, Mrs. Ethel Milne Gilmore, who helped her daughter along the path to film fame, but was more recently reported estranged from her, died yesterday. She succumbed in the parking lot of an aircraft factory where she worked.

Mrs. Gilmore, 56, was found on her hands and knees between two cars on the Douglas Aircraft Company lot nearly four hours after she was due to report for work. The coroner's office said she apparently died of natural causes.

She had a 560-a-week clerk's job and was assigned to copy-reading purchase orders. She had worked at the factory a year.

In recent years, Mrs. Gilmore was reported estranged from her famous daughter. She was not present, for example, when Judy married her business manager and third husband, Sid Luft, last June on a ranch near Hollister, Calif.

But Atty. Harry Rabwin, who says he has known the family since their days in Grand Rapids, Minn., doesn't wholly agree.

"From the mother's standpoint there was no estrangement," he said after learning of her death.

Mrs. Gilmore was divorced several years ago from Will Gilmore, a utilities company executive. Her first husband died 15 years ago. She was born in Marquette, Mich. Miss Garland, baptized Frances Gumm, was born to Mrs. Gilmore and her first husband, Frank A. Gumm, in Grand Rapids, Minn.

Mrs. Gilmore was generally given credit for coaching Judy and encouraging her on to fame. At 3, Judy appeared on the stage of a home-town theater with her parents.

Judy and her two sisters, Virginia and Suzanne, later began appearing in vaudeville as the Gumm Sisters. They married, Judy went on to win a film contract in 1936 at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Miss Garland was notified of her mother's death at the New York City hotel where she had been staying with her husband, agent Sid Luft.

Luft told a reporter that both he and Miss Garland were "very upset and very unhappy" over the news. He said she would leave New York for the West Coast as soon as she could get plane reservations.

Goodby, Good Riddance, Says Hollywood To 1952 After Overabundance Of Headaches

By Armand Archard
Central Press Correspondent
Hollywood — The year 1952 was one 12-month period of Glamorville was glad to see go.

In addition to its more-than-usual share of headlines, Hollywood had an overabundance of headaches in 1952. Movie studios watched the grosses dip a little lower and theater owners wilted many of their neighborhood houses to the highest bidders.

There was no question about it. The American movie-going public wasn't going to the local Bijou as often as it had. Whether television was the cause, or the sad state of the average pocketbook is a toss-up.

TV, of course, hurt movies more last year than 1951 and as more and more channels become available around the country more viewers will close their doors.

Film studios have done nothing to counteract TV and it looks like another six months before any concrete action will be taken to get in on the gravy train via a Phonevision or Telemeter plan.

Let's look at the year. As usual, the studio heads also done nothing to try and keep their inmates out of headlines.

As in the past Frank Sinatra had more than his share. He and Ava battled their way across the country and into Europe threatening at each new bout to enter the divorce courts.

In similar cross-continental romantle antics, Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan finally wrote finals to another idyllic marriage.

Reaching across the ocean, Ingrid Bergman, in a court appeal, tried to get daughter Pia back to her side only to find the child rejected her for her father.

The unbelievable Franchot Tone-Barbara Payton-Tom Neal triangle had the nation snickering at Hollywood for many months. Bar bell enthusiasts, seeing the effect on The Neal, gave up the sport for Parhedon.

The most dramatic story of the year was Mario Lanza's. His illness, as everyone finally diagnosed his strange behavior, was a tremendous blow to the film industry, the song world and to millions of fans who had made him their idol. Even now, there is doubt whether he will work again.

Equalling his publicity was the space garnered by a young blonde whose photographs were as common in bottom drawers as blotters on top of the desk. We're talking about Marilyn Monroe, of course. In one year she became a by-word in the movie industry and a delight for studio publicists.

Lana Turner, who had in years past owned the space now occupied by Miss Monroe's antics, found herself on the front page again in securing her divorce from Bob Toppling. She was out in front again when she broke off a flaming romance with her "Pride of the Pampas," Fernando Lamas.

Then the press chuckled as Fernando moved over to Arlene Dahl who had just divorced Lex Barker. And Lex, not to be outdone, started dating Miss Turner. Confusing?

Cupid took a terrific beating during the year. He faced these couples break up: Mona Freeman and Pat Neerney; Alexis Smith and Craig Stevens; Maureen O'Hara and Will Price; Mitzi Gaynor and Richard Coyle; the Gary Coopers; Olivia de Havilland and Marcus Goodrich; Gloria Grahame and Nick Ray; Celeste Holm and Schuyler Dunning; the Tony Dexters; Terry Moore and Glenn Davis; Hedy Lamm and Ted Stauffer; the Clark Gables; Teresa Wright and Niven Busch; the Francis Lederers; Bob Merrill and Roberta Peters; Veronica Lake and Andre de Toth; Ruth Warrick and Carl Neubert; the Keenan Wynns; the Louis Calherns, and the John Wynnes.

On the more pleasant side there were a few nice weddings: Jane Wyman to Freddie Karger; Joan Fontaine to Collier Young; Joan Evans to Kirby Weatherly; Audrey Totter to Dr. Leo Fred; Nancy Davis and Ronnie Reagan; Betty Hutton and Charles O'Curran; Judy Garland and Sid Luft; Elizabeth Taylor to Michael Wilding; and Mickey Rooney to his fourth bride, Elaine Mahknen.

The stork was busy last year, too. He made deliveries to: the Sid Lufts (Judy Garland); the Geary Steffens (Janie Powell); the Ronnie Reagans; Bert Friedlob (Eleanor Parker); the Bogarts; Howard Keels; Johnny Murphys (Barbara Lawrence); Howard Duffs (Ida Lupino); Bob Mitchums; Paul Brinkmans (Jeanne Crain); and Bette Davis and Gary Merrill adopted a son.

Walter Wanger was in the news for half the year during his trial for the shooting of agent Jennings Lang and the following four-month jail sentence.

On the lighter side were the squabbles between Zsa Zsa Gabor and husband George Sanders. And then to add to the fire was the feud between Zsa Zsa and Corinne Calvet.

Hollywood held its breath while Mala Powers, beautiful young actress, fought for her life in the hospital. After months of struggle, she pulled through and got the OK sign from her doctors to return to work.

Local eyebrows hit a new high when Ginger Rogers and Jacques Bergerac, Frenchman much her junior, became a romantic item. As usual Hollywood did more than its share in charitable enterprises. All its stars participated in the many benefits, telethons and personal appearances which raised millions for the sick and needy.

In addition, troupes of players were touring the service camps and hospitals around the world, trying to bring a few laughs to those who had almost forgotten what home was like.

One thing was certain, whether good or bad, Hollywood certainly gave us something to talk about all year round.

Truman Notes Gains During His Tenure

Washington, (AP)—President Truman made public yesterday figures he said confirm his claims that the American people "are today better off than ever before in our history."

The President said he had received a letter from Roy V. Peel, director of the Census Bureau, reporting that during Truman's administration the American people have made gains "unparalleled in American history."

The President, in a series of interviews with correspondents, in recent documents and in the State of the Union message he is sending to Congress this week, seems to be summarizing the record of his administration for study by future historians as well as for his own satisfaction.

Peel's letter stated: "During your administration, the people of the United States have made tremendous gains in their incomes, standard of living, education, housing, and in numerous other ways which have been reflected in census figures. These gains are unparalleled in American history."

The letter said that the last census, April 1, 1950, showed that there were nearly 151 million people in the United States grouped in 43 million households with 46 million dwelling units at their disposal.

Over half of all dwellings were occupied by owners and some 56.4 per cent were free of mortgage. While the total of 5,400,000 farms was smaller than in 1940, there were 78 million more acres devoted to farming. Peel said three quarters of all farms are now operated by their owners.

"Never before in history have so many farmers had the help of modern facilities, machinery and equipment," he reported.

"In 1950, over 5½ million farmers reported sales exceeding $2 billion dollars, an all-time high."

The letter went on to say that the census of manufacturers, covering operations in 1947, enumerated 241,000 establishments "with value added by manufacturer amounting to 74½ billion dollars," while last year, according to the annual survey of trends, "value added was about 102 billion dollars."

The letter added that retail sales in 1948 totaled 130½ billion dollars and at the present time retail sales exceeded 160 billion.

"The Census Bureau's current statistical reports show that there are now some 158 million Americans," the letter continued.

"Preliminary studies of transportation and mining, and current surveys of foreign trade, carried out by the Bureau of the Census, indicate that in those fields, too, the achievements of the American people are without parallel in the history of the world."

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HIGHER, HIGHER WILL WE CLIMB UP THE MOUNT OF GLORY—MONTGOMERY.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to snarl out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

T-B Society Within $300 Of Its Goal

Failure of exactly 1,886 persons to respond to Christmas Seal sale letters of Monroe County Tuberculosis Society has left that agency exactly $296.58 short of its bare minimum budget of $8,000.

If only one-sixth of these 1,886 persons who have ignored the TB Christmas seal sale and what it means to the x-ray discovery program among students, food handlers and themselves, send in their money for the stamps they received, the minimum budget will be received.

The TB society's work in discovery of tuberculosis in scores of individuals who never dreamt they had it has paid off over the years. Early discovery through the society's x-ray program has meant early cures and prevented spread of this infectious disease.

Actual cash returns in the 1952 Seal Sale campaign amount to $7,803.42. The nearly $300 lacking may appear to be a small amount, but in the case of the TB Society where the budget is frugally arranged, that $300 covers a great many x-rays to a great many people.

Returns should be mailed to Monroe County Tuberculosis Society, 621 Sarah St., Stroudsburg.

Seal Sale Over Top

Portland—Residents of this area went over the top in the 1952 Christmas Seal Sale by $24, it was announced by the Eastern Northampton County Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Of the $400 goal set by Portland Community, funds totaling $424 were donated.

Chairman of the Seal drive, Rev. George A. Creitz, announced that 97 per cent of the society's $20,000 goal had been reached. Returns totaled $19,453, he said.

Other State Belt returns were: Bangor, $1,491 or $459 below their quota; Wind Gap, $35 over their $335 quota; Pen Argyl, $877 or $73 below the quota; Roseto, $43 under quota with $132 donated.

Army Board Tries Woman For Murder

Tokyo, (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Krueger Smith went on trial yesterday before a U. S. Army Court Martial Board, charged with murdering her officer husband. She lost her composure in a flood of tears when a witness testified she exclaimed "I'm so glad I did it" the night Col. Aubrey D. Smith was stabbed to death.

The witness was Shigeko Tani, 28, a Japanese housemaid employed by the attractive, 40-year-old defendant and her husband. Smith was stabbed fatally last Oct. 3.

Miss Tani, speaking in Japanese, disclosed that she took a 12-inch Okinawa hunting knife away from Mrs. Smith after the stabbing but later found her brandishing a kitchen knife over her dying husband. The maid said she took that knife away from Mrs. Smith, too.

The gray-haired mother of two children and daughter of retired Gen. Walter Krueger wept frequently as the trial opened before a nine-member court martial.

She entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of premeditated murder, which carried a maximum penalty of death.

Smith, 45, who was chief of plans and operations for the logistics section of the Far East Command, died in an Army hospital six hours after he was stabbed.

for his Shawnee brand tomato juice cocktail as he is for his fine singing.

Musicians Frank Hower, John Richardson, Pete Buonconsiglio, Bob Gray, cellist, Frank Hower, pianist on the regular Waring program, will accompany the group.

Organist Richard Lindroth, a member of the Waring Enterprises staff, will demonstrate the new instruments in both churches with a specially selected group of numbers.

Sands, featured tenor soloist and member of the Fred Waring Glee Club, is a native of Phoenix, Ariz., and grew up in Pasadena, Calif. A Capitol recording artist in his own right, the 28-year-old vocalist has demonstrated his ability to sing opera, popular tunes, and familiar ballads equally well.

Mrs. Wyatt, wife of magazine editor Jack Wyatt and a graduate of Juilliard School of Music, joined the Pennsylvanians late last Spring. This featured soprano was born at Montclair, N. J., and lived during her school years at Charlottesville, Va., where her mother still resides.

Baritone Leonard Kranendonk, known to local audiences through his participation in Stroudsburg and Shawnee community activities, is a dramatic baritone. Born in Holland, he migrated to Wisconsin at an early age. Kranendonk has been a member of the Waring organization for nearly 20 years. Locally he is almost as well known
